One has only to contemplate the magnitude of this task to concede that the spontaneous generation of a living organism is impossible. Yet, here we are as a result, I believe, of spontaneous generation. George Wald, Harvard professor, Nobel Prize winner,

Evolution itself is accepted by zoologists, not because it has been observed to occur or can be proved by logical, coherent evidence, but because the only alternative is special creation, and that is clearly incredible. James Watson, Nobel Prize winner, physiology/medicine.

"This regular absence of transitional forms is not confined to mammals, but it an almost universal phenomenon, as has long been noted by paleontologists." - G.G. Simpson, G.G. Simpson, Tempo and Mode of Evolution Tempo and Mode of Evolution.

"...the gap remains unbridged and the best place to start the evolution of vertebrates is in the imagination." -H. Smith, New York University, H. Smith, New York University, From Fish to Philosopher

"There are no detailed Darwinian accounts for the evolution of any fundamental biochemical or cellular system, only a variety of wishful speculations. It is remarkable that Darwinism is accepted as a satisfactory explanation for such a vast subject – evolution – with so little rigorous examination of how well its basic theses work in illuminating specific instances of biological adaptation or diversity." –James James Shapiro, molecular biologist at Univ. of Chicago, committed evolutionist.

~ "No wonder paleontologists shied away from evolution for so long. It never seems to happen. Assiduous collecting up cliff faces yield zigzags, minor oscillations, and the very occasional slight accumulation of change – over millions of years, at a rate too slow to account for all the prodigious change that has occurred in evolutionary history. When we do see the introduction of evolutionary novelty, it usually shows up with a bang, and often with no firm evidence that the fossils did not evolve somewhere else. Yet that's how the fossil record has struck many a forlorn paleontologist looking to learn something about evolution." –Niles Eldridge, one of the world's leading experts in vertebrate fossils, and proponent of Punctuated Equilibrium.

Hugh's unshakable confidence that God's revelation of Himself in Scripture and nature do not, will not, and cannot contradict became his unique message.
